President's Message for February ...

Thank you members for helping make the Amelia Earhart meeting such a success. We had over 70 people attend the meeting. The speaker, Mr. Melfi, was most interesting. He graciously answered all questions.

Several people expressed their pleasure with the meeting. We sold $105.25 worth of books and puzzles. Thanks to everyone who contributed. Thanks especially to Kathy Hyzer for getting the speaker, Evie Ashmore for the hotel arrangements, and Nikki Headlee for doing the reservations and tending the books.

I am looking forward to the meeting. As you know, we will hear from the recipients of the service grants. This is usually a very interesting meeting.

Please be sure to read the by-law changes. Most of these are just making adjustments needed as a result of the changes made at International. We still need to vote on them officially. We also have a possible opportunity to help fund a program on PBS that would highlight the work of Zonta. The board has approved $2,000 for this project if investigations shows it will really help publicize Zonta.

The fashion show is rapidly approaching. I am hoping all of you have been talking up the show. The tickets should be out soon, but we can still promote the show until we get the tickets. As our major fund-raiser, we all need to be actively selling and showing our support. This is where we get the money for our service projects. I look forward to a wonderful show.

Nominations for future officers are coming soon. Please be thinking about people you feel will do well in the various positions. The information needs to be given to Judy Allen or Clem Spainhower. Thank you for your input.

See you at the meeting. Cynthia

District Cell Phone Project

Area 3 Presidents have been busy working out details to successfully implement the District 12 Cell Phone Project for area 3 clubs. While members have been encouraged to turn in their old cell phones to be programmed to call 911 for women at risk for domestic violence, area 3 is looking at ways to set up collection boxes and to increase the recognition of Zonta's role in this effort.

Mary Harris "Mother" Jones

(Labor agitator, 1830-1930)

One of the most fiery figures in the American labor movement, Mother Jones was born in County Cork, Ireland, and emigrated to the United States as a child. After losing her husband and children to yellow fever in 1867 and her dressmaking business to the Chicago fire in 1871, Jones became a full-time labor organizer. Her motto was "Pray for the dead and fight like hell for the living." The labor movement itself became her home; as she put it, "My address is like my shoes. I travel with me I abide where there is a fight against wrong." She was one of the founders of the Industrial Workers of the World, and she traveled throughout the U.S. to organize miners, garment workers, and steelworkers. An ardent child labor abolitionist as well, she led a march of child textile workers in 1903 to President Theodore Roosevelt's home. Outspoken, unafraid of conflict, Mother Jones devoted her life to the struggles of working people and was saluted by admirers and adversaries alike on her hundredth birthday.

membership. That acceptance included commitment on your part to support the club and its programs.

The fashion show is our most visible activity and we can't be successful without every member giving maximum effort.

This means selling luncheon and raffle tickets. No one is unapproachable. Please don't assume that an individual can't but a luncheon ticket or take a chance on our great raffle prizes without giving her, or him, a chance.

If you can commit to a full table, that's great; we'll even take money on a payment plan. Remember, you don't have to buy the table yourself, you can commit and sell those seats to others.

If your company purchases a corporate table, we'll be delighted. However, we fervently hope that you will continue to sell tickets to your friends, etc., so we can enlarge our attendance base.

We believe every member should attend this club event and we expect to see you there - that's purchasing at least one ticket and making every effort to bring at least three, four or five friends. We thank those members who have unavoidable out-of-town commitments but who've made a financial commitment equal to their participation if they were in town in support of this club fundraising project.

The luncheon is Saturday, March 30 at the Westin Westminster.

Call Kate Linscott (303-795-0347) about corporate tables or general tickets. Clem Spainhower (303-771-0050) is coordinating patron tables. If you have questions, please call either Cathy Conley (303-673-1534) or Jennifer Lamb (303-936-8311).

02 January 2002

Dear Zontians,

YANGI YILINGIZ BILAN! Happy New Year in Uzbek!

I hope that your 2002 has started off well and that you enjoyed the holiday! I was unable to travel to Tashkent as previously planned, so I spent the holiday here in Andijan and had a wonderful time.

The tradition here is that families get together and share a large French Thanksgiving meal together with several courses punctuated with everyone giving vodka toasts until the magic hour of midnight when champagne bottles pop and everyone cheers! (no Auld Lang Sine here)

I was very fortunate to have spent the holiday with the Turdaliev family who have been very helpful to me in getting things going here in Andijan. The father is Kozimjon (Dept. of Econ. Dev. for Andijan Oblast), his son Muzaffar is my driver/interpreter (spent 18 months in the US on a horticultural scholarship), their wives Fatima? and Naima (respectively), and Muzaffar's two girls Malichka (whom I call "Molly") and Zarina (whom I call "Princesa").

The pre-holiday celebration started on the 31st (also a holiday, markets open until about 13:00) with shopping in the markets for a New Year's Eve dress (I had only my suit and one skirt/sweater) and after much shopping and trying on of various costumes, finally found a straight black sheath that was long enough for me and with a jacket with modest sequined flowers (fancy enough for the occasion). Then we found the perfect New Year's cake (complete with Kor Bobur (father Noel or Santa Clause) and Yule Trees (our Christmas Trees, complete with tinsel, lights, balls, etc.) I had the forethought to bring Mozart and Bacci chocolates with me from Tash so I had the perfect NY's gift. The evening's activities began at around 19:00 when I arrived. I left my shoes outside and put on warm slippers that were proffered and went into the main living room where a large tall table was set the evening. I mention that the table was a tall one because traditionally, people sit on blankets and rugs on the floors, lean back on pillows, and eat on low tables. Molly was dressed as a snowflake (white dress with silver tinsel wrapped around her) and Princesa was all in red like Bobur. The mother and daughter were dressed in traditional velour dresses, the father like Dad (shirt, tie, cardigan sweater vest) and the son like an American (jeans w/a crease and T-shirt). We started with cold salads, of which there were only 5 vegetarian + 2 w/meat: spicy long/thinly sliced carrots, mixed veggies, peas and onions, pickles, Russian salad, and tomatoes/pepinos. Then we had soup (mine was just veggie). Then we had a break for dancing -the girls and mom showed me how to do it by moving my arms. (Very beautiful) and making my head do the bobble (this is going to take lots of practice). After some dancing we ate nuts, fruits, and drank juices. Then we conversed and watched a special music show on the television. Then it was time for "mante" (mahn-tuh) which is large raviolis stuffed with meats/veggies and for me just veggies. Punctuating all of these activities were various toasts by all members of the family (excluding the girls) but including me. We all wished each other health, wealth, and success in 2002. Finally it was midnight and we popped the champagne and ate the cake. People called the family, the family called other family members, and I too made and received call from other friends. We danced and sang some traditional songs (along with Yulduz the famous national singer here in Uzbekistan) and after that we ate noodle stew (only veggies for me) and somsa (samosas). By 02:30 I was stuffed and sleepy so the family drove me home.

For New Year's Day I met Muzaffar and Naima, plus their two girls and another niece and nephew. We went to the amusement park and played on the games, small ferris wheel, swings, walked around the park, I played Auntie and took the kids on rides, swung them around, bought them cookies and cola (sugar highs) and when they started to get cranky, we left and I went home. Timing was perfect for me! All in all it was a great way to start the new year. Hope that yours was the same.

Wishing you a Prosperous 2002 filled with joy, good health, and continued success in all your endeavors!

Love, Jillann

27 January 2002

I realize that this letter is reaching you a bit late, but this was typed in Andijan and it is only now that I'm back for a long enough period of time to have some free time on the computer to write to you again. I finally made it to Tajikistan on the 16th and spent four days there trying to get things started: met with all five of the micro-enterprise and micro-credit organizations, had translations made into Tajik of my materials, found a temporary assistant to help me, placed ads in the newspapers for the positions, looked for an office and house, and was very sick with a bad cold! Khujand sits on the plain and is very windy. Only certain places in the city (old town) have electricity, water, and gas 24/7, otherwise you have to know what times you will have these things and work your schedule around those times accordingly (reminds me of Sarajevo). The Tajik currency "soumani" is convertible making life much easier for me. Prices are low for most local food products, and the market is similar to Uzbekistan. A few nice restaurants and several ex-pats in the hood, but none of them get together and the UN people are "snobs" (according to the non-UN people). The "Tajik Sea" (a reservoir) is about 30 mins. out of town and is pleasant in the summertime. There is only one internet cafe for students who have been to the US to study, otherwise it's a police state. I was surprised at how calm everything was and that is the norm for Khujand even the mosques are open and people go regularly. Dushanbe, however, is more tense and has more people. There you must be careful.

I made it back in time to attend the Seeds Consortium for Afghanistan and I now know more than anyone in my position should about the various kinds of wheat and maize seeds, cultivars and trees, and various kinds of irrigation schemes in Afghanistan. It was interesting but not my first choice for a 10-hour day on Sunday and another 8 hours on Monday. However, we got all the problems solved and everyone is happy. I turned in my notes and now I'm in Andijan.

Monday will be house hunting and office hunting, and hopefully opening a bank account. Tuesday candidates will present their credentials and take a test. Wednesday we grade the tests and make call-backs. Thursday is preparation and Fri, Sat, Sun is the first pre-selection training for staff for the local micro-lending (ML) NGO. I'm very excited and looking forward to making it happen. On Monday it's back to Tash where I'll get another 2-week visa for Taj and that same afternoon go to Khujand to repeat on Tues-Sun the same routine for the ML NGO there. After that it's to Dushanbe to get a 3-month multi-entry visa and then back to Tashkent and Andijan for the next steps in the development process of the organizations, which is team building, internal by-laws, contracts, etc. The 3rd week of Feb. my colleagues from KCLF in Kaz will come to conduct the training in Uz, then the 4th week in Taj. Hopefully before then my Prog. Dir. from DC (Chris) will visit and get the offices up and running (all the admin. stuff I don't like to deal with and all the things that he's good at contracts, office equipment, quotes, purchases, the cars, paperwork, etc.) The first week of March Aliya from Kyrgyz will come to train my Office Managers in how to manage the A/V offices in both countries (more admin.) and then we'll be up and running hooray! After that it's just training, registration and when we are registered, we're free to start lending!!!!!!

So, as you can see, progress is being made, I'm coming down with another cold (there's still no gas in Andijan but I'm getting a mega heater), and the snow has melted. I'm in good spirits and hopefully will start some language training this week (in Uz) so that I can at least do prices in the markets and give greetings.

Hoping all's well with you and my apologies for the delay in letting you know that I'm still alive and well.

Thinking of you and wishing you well,
Jillann

Results of "Alternative Fundraising Survey"

There were a total of 23 responses to the Alternative Fundraising Survey. There did not appear to be a clear preference based on the survey results. The Alternative Fundraising Committee is still pursuing several ideas and should have something to report to the membership within the next several months.

The following suggestions were offered in the survey:

- A - A Mother's Day plant push when many are thinking what to do with their gardens. We envision something on a scale of Denver II's.
- B - Team up with a nursery (plant variety) at Christmas and have a gala with auction or raffle.
- C - Have a cemetery gala on solstice, possibly a dance and auction with a tent for artists.
- D - A winter tea at Tweed's or Phipps Mansion
- E - Art In The Fast Lane - The idea here would be to partner with someone with a unique and special auto collection and have a dinner dance with an art auction.
- F - Team up with a group, such as, Rocky Mountain Vintage Racers who hosts a charity event each year.
- G - No fundraiser, use Trust Funds for community service.
- H - Other (see below)

Members were asked to rate or weigh their preferences with a #1, #2 or #3. In several cases some members only designated that they liked the suggestion. These are shown on the tables as "OK's". Some members noted if they especially did not like an idea. Those results are shown as "NO's". Number of responses to survey

Preferences	#1	#2	#3	OK's	Total +	NO'S
A	7	4	1	1	13
B		4	2	2	8	1
C	1	1	5	1	8	1
D	3	7	2	1	13
E			2	2	4
F	2		5	3	10
G	5	4		4	13
Total	18	20	17	14	69	2

Other suggestions and/or comments:

1. Several comments related to "G".
 - Not just one large fundraiser but several smaller ones and also teaming up w/ other organizations and more "laid back".
 - Drop fundraiser for one year and strengthen Club.
 - If fundraiser dropped must replace w/ more "hands on" projects.
 - In conjunction w/ a "non-fundraiser".
 - Temporary, until more viable fundraiser idea(s) surfaces.
2. One member didn't like the cemetery, but did like the solstice and art idea.
3. One member wanted us to use the winter tea as a recruitment process.
4. Use the Denver Botanic Gardens if "A" chosen.
5. One member commented that they didn't like any of the ideas but didn't have any alternatives either.

Zonta Club of Denver
Business Meeting
January 10, 2002

Call to order - President Cynthia Herndon called the meeting to order at the Marriott Southeast. The invocation was presented by Cathy Conley.

Treasurer's Report - Nikki and Judy McNerny presented details of the $5,000 bequest from the estates of Mary Ellen Brickner and her husband, Tom Fredrickson. There are no restrictions on the use of the funds. Mary Ellen Brickner was a long-term member who passed away in 1995. The Club's Trustees will meet with bank personnel on January 25, 2002 for the standing quarterly review of Club Funds.

Committee Reports

Membership: Evie reported that we had 22 members attending with one guest and our Speaker. She also reported that there were 71 reservations for the Amelia Earhart Dinner. Elizabeth Clinton assisted Evie with the induction ceremonies of four new members: Eve Childs-Best, Shelia Davis, Marianne Lantz and Sharon Thompson. Evie also reminded everyone about the ZAP Program scheduled for February 7, 2002 at the American Red Cross building.

Service: New forms for recording Service Hours were distributed. Members can record hours back to June 2001. Please complete and return to any Service Committee Member. Linda Rhea offered a heartfelt "Thank You" to all 9 members who participated in the Santa Claus Shop. Over 13,800 children were given gifts this past year! Julie Bradley also thanked the December "Bell Ringers" on behalf of the Salvation Army. A sign up sheet for Ronald McDonald House Dinners was passed around. Everyone was reminded about the Cell Phone Project; bring them to any meeting in a zip lock bag. The Team ZI SVAW, a cross-country bicycle race of Zontians was announced. Details were published in the Smoke Signal.

Fundraising: Cathy Conley reported that organizational efforts for the Fashion Show are going very slow. There is still no MC, fashion house or grand prize for the raffle. Her and Jennifer are working very hard to finalize all of the outstanding items, but the effects of the September 11, 2001 attack have adversely affected the retailers and others we depend on for support for our annual fundraiser.

Status of Women: No Report.

Public Relations: No Report.

Program

Our Speaker was Peggy Ruddin, Director of "Advocates For Children". Last year over 700 children in need were assisted by the extraordinary efforts of 10 paid staff members and less than 300 volunteers. This organization represents the children's interests when they become involved in the Colorado Courts Systems. The children's involvement is usually related to cases of neglect or abuse. Peggy related the training (30 hours) that the volunteers undergo and some of the challenges and rewards they experience. Currently, there are 269 volunteers, but with the anticipated caseload for 2002, she needs 400. Most of the volunteers spend a minimum of 3 to 4 hours per week working directly with children "in the system". Peggy said the rewards are worth the efforts and she "Wakes up every day, thanking God that she is able to do this work."

Unfinished Business:

- None

New Business:

- None

Announcements:

- Elizabeth Clinton reminded everyone of the April 13, 2002 Area 3 Meeting. A U.S. Marshal will be the featured speaker.

- Everyone was reminded to bring books and puzzles, for donation, to the Amelia Earhart Dinner.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Respectively submitted, Diane Twining, Secretary.
